2018 Citizen Survey Introduction

The City of Amarillo Police Department is committed to providing citizens with exemplary service and a safe city. In order to ensure the department is meeting the community's needs and expectations, the Amarillo Police Department asks the opinions of citizens by notifying citizens through the news, social media, and APD webpage of Quality of Service Survey on Survey Monkey. When requested, paper surveys were sent to citizens if they did not have access to the internet. The survey poses key questions to assist the department in determining overall agency performance and competence of agency employees, citizens' perception of officers' attitudes and behavior, community concern over safety and security in Amarillo, as well as citizens' recommendations and suggestions for improvements.

The survey allows residents to convey their priorities for enforcement and it serves as a report card that provides insight when establishing goals, enhancing training, and shaping the future of the Police Department. Many of the questions are repeated each year to provide a reference for comparison of changes both in public opinion and for areas of new concern. Analysis of the survey results assists in tracking opinions regarding the quality of services and helps direct the focus of the department's efforts to better serve the citizens of Amarillo.

The citywide 2018 survey conducted in April 2019 had a .31 percent response rate per population, but the response rate increased from the responses from 2017 at .21 percent. The department anticipates the public participation to increase with greater community involvement and communication.

Citizens' Contact with the Amarillo Police Department

To better understand the context of respondents' assessments and opinions, it is helpful to know the type of contact respondents had with the police department in 2018. For instance, 40 percent of respondents had no contact with police. Consequently, these respondents may not be able to fairly assess the questions regarding employee performance, call handling, and agency employee competence.

Citizens' Opinions of Police Services

Valuing citizen opinions, the survey included questions specifically to address the respondents' level of satisfaction with police employee performance, handling calls for service, and employee competence. These questions assist in focusing resources to address any concerns.

Did the AECC Dispatcher perform to your expectations?

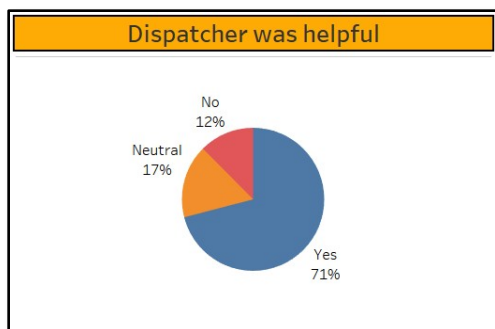

The survey results showed 86 percent of those that answered this question who had contact with AECC

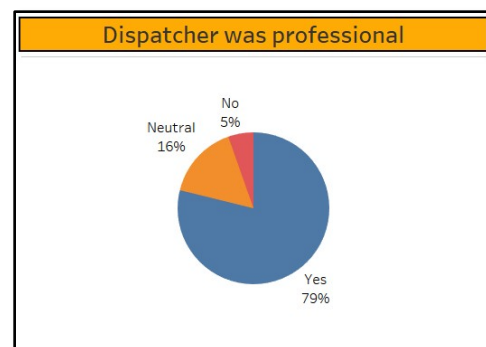

Dispatch personnel thought the employee met the citizen's expectations, and 14 percent felt dispatcher did not meet expectations.

When asked if the dispatcher was courteous and professional, 79 percent said yes. Moreover, 71 percent thought the dispatcher was helpful.

Did the front desk personnel perform to your expectations?

Of the respondents, 84 percent felt the front desk personnel met expectations with 16 percent disagreeing.

52 percent felt the front desk was courteous, helpful, and professional.

Did the property personnel perform to your expectations?

Professional demeanor is a quality that officers must have at APD, and 75 percent of citizens responding that the officer was professional during their encounter, and 12 percent disagreed.

Citizen Enforcement Direction

Citizens were asked where the police department should concentrate its efforts by ranking each of the following priorities one through five. The majority of respondents ranked combating drug use and sales as the top priority. Patrolling neighborhoods was rated second priority, then enforcing drunk-driving laws, improving traffic safety, and reducing domestic violence, respectively.

2018 Ranking of Citizen Concerns

| Priority | Concern |
|------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1 | Combat Drug Use and Sales |
| 2 | Patrolling Neighborhoods |
| 3 | Enforcing Drunk Driving Laws |
| 4 | Improving Traffic Safety |
| 5 | Reduce Domestic Violence |

Conclusion

The police department utilizes the Quality of Police Services survey to measure organizational performance success. The survey results show the men and women of the police department continue to do an outstanding job providing quality police services to Amarillo citizens. The survey has been undertaken for three years, and respondents have consistently rated the department's overall quality of police services favorably.

Although the members of the police department continue to deliver high quality police services for the citizens, there are opportunities for the police department to better engage the community in addressing the fear of crime, the prevention of crime, and survey participation. The results of the survey completed in April 2019 found that 48 percent of the respondents believed crime in Amarillo is increasing even though crime is actually decreasing. Amarillo's Uniform Crime Report (UCR) crime rate for 2016 was 54.37 offenses per 1,000 residents.

Amarillo's 2018 final UCR crime rate has not been released by the Texas Department of Public Safety yet; however, the preliminary 2018 crime rate is 48.8 offenses per 1,000 residents, which is about a 10% decrease compared to the crime rate in 2016. For the first quarter of 2019, Amarillo's crime rate is also lower than in 2018 during the same period.

Like most cities, the majority of UCR offenses are property crimes related to vehicles. Most of the decrease in Amarillo's crime rate is attributable to more people removing valuables from their vehicles, locking their vehicles, and removing the keys. Additionally, Amarillo Police Department has participated in federal interagency crime reducing programs to specifically reduce violent crime, such as Project Safe Neighborhood and was recently selected to participate in federal grant program, Public Safety Partnership. As citizens become more aware of crime prevention success through these and other programs, the perception that crime is increasing in Amarillo will likely decrease.

The number of respondents that had engaged in community meetings or in a Neighborhood Crime Watch Program doubled from the survey conducted in 2017. In addition to the traditional methods of communicating citizen satisfaction survey data (press releases, public meetings, and the website) the department utilizes social media sites such as Facebook and Twitter to reach thousands of citizens daily.

The police department also makes use of the City's website (www.Amarillo.gov) in which citizens may access data relating to crimes and crime prevention initiatives or interact with APD personnel. Addressing the concerns of the citizens and developing greater transparency of department standards adds to the level of trust the citizens have in local government and fosters a sense of community involvement.
